Area Schools Get Set for Opening

Teachers Meet For Briefings

More than 90 certificated teachers of the Menlo Park Elementary School District were this week involved in a four-day series of preschool meetings, getting ready for the annual reopening of school here Tuesday.

A total of 2457 youngsters are expected to enroll, according to District Superintendent Dr. Melville Homfeld; kindergarten west of El Camino Real have already been closed because registration is over capacity.

The four-day orientation program for new teachers started Tuesday at Central school. During a three-hour morning session, they heard a discussion of district policies, curriculum and working conditions by Dr. Homfeld, District Business Manager John Richert, and the principals of the district's five schools.

During the afternoon, the new teachers were luncheon guests of the Menlo Park Teachers Association and later in the afternoon, they will meet with principals of the schools to which they have been assigned.

FULL FACULTY

Yesterday's activities started with the traditional breakfast for all teachers, at the Homfeld home at 229 Lennox avenue, at 9:30 a.m.

The teachers adjourned to the Encinal school multi-use room for a general meeting at 11:30 a.m., and heard the superintendent review the district's various policies, with emphasis on recent changes.

Yesterday afternoon's activities took the form of "grade level" meetings, at which all the teachers working with an instructional level of children met with an administrator to discuss the year's goals and teaching materials.

This morning, teachers were to meet with special instructional personnel, including music, art, and physical education consultants. They were also to meet with the science instructors.

Tomorrow, teachers will work in their own rooms, getting materials and displays set up so that classes may begin effectively, on the first day of school.

For the first time in several years, Ravenswood will welcome other than special students. There will be 26 in the slow learner classes and 83 sixth graders for a total registration of 109.

682 boys and girls will go to Willow School. There will be 114 in kindergarten, 116 in the first grade, 90 in the second grade, 106 in the third grade, 89 in the fourth grade, 115 in the fifth grade and 52 in the sixth grade.

An equal number of seventh and eighth grade students will go to Green Oaks Junior School. There will be 247 in each grade or a total of 494. Menlo Oaks will have 150 seventh graders and 133 eighth graders for a total of 283.

Entire Sequoia Staff Meets Here

The entire staff of the Sequoia High School District — some 550 teachers, administrators, maintenance and operations personnel — gathered at Menlo-Atherton High School for a "coffee hour" yesterday morning, signalling the start of preparations for school.

Classes will start at their regular hours next Tuesday morning, according to Superintendent Dr. Rex Turner, and a full day of work will be in order for the district's anticipated 7200 students.

Menlo-Atherton will open with some 2600 of the anticipated students, Dr. Turner went on to say.

Besides general all-faculty meetings which started yesterday, opening day preparations of new teachers were gotten underway on Tuesday, when some 70 new certificated staffers met with Dr. Turner at Sequoia High School library.

Tuesday afternoon, the new staffers toured the schools to which they have been assigned, becoming acquainted with administrators and other personnel.

Following the coffee hour yesterday, Dr. Turner discussed last year's program, and explained his hopes for the coming year.

During the afternoon, faculty meetings were held at each school.

Today was given over to department metings at the schools.

City Asks Advice on Underpass

Menlo Park's city council Tuesday night remained split over best location for a new traffic underpass at the Southern Pacific railroad tracks. To help break the deadlock, councilmen asked City Manager C. L. Longson to seek the advice of an outside engineering firm.

After scrambling up the railroad right-of-way in an on-the-spot tour of the two proposed locations—at the end of Willow road and opposite Middle avenue—the council still displayed an even division of opinion. Two members favored the Willow site, two the Middle site.

Fifth Councilman Michael L. Belangie, still uncommitted to either location, summed up the stalemate: "The council is agreed on one thing: We need an east-west crossing."

Mayor William R. Lawson and Councilman Ira Bonde stood firm in their support of the Middle avenue project, stressing that they believed it would best solve problems of internal traffic congestion for the city.

Vaile S. Andrus remained chief spokesman for the Willow location with the evident support of Guy E. Plaisted. Andrus questioned Lawson's belief that the "internal" traffic problem can be separated from "regional" problems and declared that, aside from all other arguments, "the cost favors Willow."

According to City Engineer Edwin H. Smith, the Middle project would cost approximately $133,000 more than the Willow plan.

In view of the continuing disagreement, Lawson proposed hiring of an outside engineering firm to study the problem and make a recommendation based on traffic counts, projections, and the relative advantages of the two structures.

Such an outside opinion was suggested to the council last week in a letter from the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce.

Lawson pointed out that the underpass would have to be built with a bond issue voted by the people. The bonds themselves, it was indicated, would be paid off out of city sales tax receipts, thus placing no additional tax burden on property owners.

With the council itself so evenly divided on location of the underpass, Lawson intimated that a thorough, unbiased report from an outside source would improve chances of a "yes" vote from the public.

Both factions agreed that such a survey would be worthwhile in view of the size of the undertaking. The survey itself, it was estimated, would cost from $5,000 to $10,000.

Longson was directed to contact engineering firms for estimates on such a study, which would cover, the council agreed, the question of which underpass would best solve the city's internal traffic problems as foreseen for the next 10 to 15 years.

ALL-CITY POW-WOW MARKS END OF SUMMER AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

SUMMER'S LAST FLING—In the minds of hundreds of members of the younger set, took the form of the city recreation department's annual All-City Pow-Wow, held last Thursday at Nealon park. At left, an unidentified girl from one of the city parks away from the center of the city tries out some of the gym equipment at Nealon and, above, Billy Durksen of the Laurel school playground group which crossed the tracks attracts attention of a few of his friends by working toward some sort of a record number of successful evolutions with a jump rope.

With Bond Issue in Mind:

Council Studies Which Projects To Plan With Sales Tax Funds

What capital improvement projects are most urgently needed in Menlo Park?

Tuesday night the city council once again tackled this question and moved to find the answer.

For more than a year, councilmen have been considering use of city sales tax funds to finance a number of projects. Most favored method of procedure would be a bond issue, voted by Menlo Park citizens, which would in turn be paid off out of the city's one per cent sales tax, thus causing no increase in the property tax burden.

Specific action to determine which projects should be attempted first, however, has been postponed until the city learned from experience just how much could reasonably be expected from the sales levy.

In informal discussion this week, councilmen again looked over lists of proposed improvements and then called for a definite report on needs and estimated costs of various undertakings from the city manager's office.

LIKELY PROJECTS

In addition to a traffic underpass at the Southern Pacific railroad tracks, the leading contenders for action seemed to be:

1. A community center building in the civic center, with such facilities as teenage recreation and dancing rooms, meeting rooms for organizations and some kitchen equipment.

2. A new police station. (Councilman Michael L. Belangie branded the present one as being "as bad as some of the county jails we read about.")

3. A youth center in the Belle Haven area.

4. Expansion of recreational facilities at parks throughout the city.

5. Additional offstreet parking areas, both for commuters and for downtown shoppers.

6. New city administrative offices.

The first three-month period during which the city collected its sales tax brought in more than $40,000 from that source, leading city officials to expect that annual revenue from the levy will average $180,000.

In setting up the sales tax program, the council pledged itself to use the funds, first, to retire already outstanding city bond issues, which now total only some $200,000. Of the balance, the council indicated its planned to use 40 per cent to reduce the property tax rate and 60 per cent for capital improvements.

For the present fiscal year, the city has budgeted $105,300 of anticipated sales tax receipts for specific improvement projects.

3 Area Towns To Sit in on Serra Hearing

Atherton, Woodside and Menlo Park will all have representation at the State Division of Highways' hearing on the route of the proposed Junipero Serra freeway, to be held Sept. 26 at Hillsdale High School in San Mateo.

Menlo Park city councilmen have indicated they feel the city should favor a modified Route B, which would swing west of proposed residential development on Stanford lands west of the city, which are slated to be annexed.

Atherton councilmen have gone on record opposing "Route A," which would proceed south along the present route of Alameda de las Pulgas, but have indicated they will not endorse any other route.

In Woodside, the roads commission of the town council will hold a public hearing next Tuesday, at which the route favored by that city's government will be discussed. The latter will be held at 8 p.m. at the Boy Scout hall.

The Sept. 26 hearing, according to a highway department announcement, will concern that portion of the freeway in San Mateo county. It will commence at 10 a.m.

On Sept. 17 and 18, maps showing the locations of the various routes being investigated will be on display at the San Mateo city hall.

Coming Soon:

CITY REPORT

The annual report of the City Council to the people of Menlo Park, normally published during the early summer, will be issued this fall in its usual booklet form.

Compilation of the report this year was delayed during the fatal illness of the late Councilman Charles P. Burgess, who had largely authored the book during previous years.

City councilmen Tuesday night informally agreed to continue the report in its past format as a small booklet detailing not only the finances, but the major actions of all branches of the city government during the past year.

Chamber Dinner Reservations To Go in Mail

George T. Wallace, general chairman of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce dinner to be held Sept. 22 at Sunset Magazine's headquarters, this week announced that reservations will be mailed to C of C members within the next few days.

He emphasized that because of the unusual nature of Luau planned, a capacity turnout is expected and Chamber members are urged to make their reservations early.

FINDS STOLEN CAR

An auto reported stolen Tuesday in Redwood City was found at 1:09 a.m. yesterday in Atherton, police report.

Building Permit Slump Here Reflects Strike

A 16-unit, $80,000 apartment facing Coleman avenue was the biggest construction job to be started during August, the regular monthly report of Building Inspector James Steiger indicated this week.

Only one single family residence, an $18,000 one, was started during the month.

And reflecting the effect of a ready-mix concrete strike, building totals were down generally —only 35 permits, with an aggregate valuation of $270,500, were issued.

Besides the $80,000 job, five other apartment buildings with 20 living units and a valuation of $103,000, were started.

There were 10 residence alteration jobs with a valuation of $19,200 started; also 14 new nonresidences with a valuation of $37,800 and five nonresidence alterations with a total valuation of $12,500.

School Trustees Set School Meets

Menlo Park School District trustees are going to take to the neighborhoods, so that at least some future board meetings can be held in the schools themselves.

The board usually meets on first and third Tuesdays of the month, at Central school. However, "first Tuesday" meetings, for the next five months, will be held at locations listed in the following schedule, the trustees decided Tuesday night:

Oct. 1, Fremont school second grade clasroms; Nov. 5, Oak Knoll school library; Dec. 3, Hillview school music room; Feb. 4, Laurel school; March 4, Encinal school, in an upper grade classroom.

Trustees Weigh Protests on Boundary Shifts

Attendance area boundaries will remain as announced, but school administrators are expected to give careful consideration to all individual problems caused by boundary shifts.

This was decided by the Menlo Park School District board of trustees Tuesday, after hearing protests from six residents of the San Mateo-Wallea drive area, between Santa Cruz and Middle avenues, whose fourth and fifth graders have to be shifted from Hillview to Fremont school for the coming year.

Board members pointed out that there are advantages to being shifted, such as allowing smaller classes.

Parents present indicated they felt their youngsters would lose contact with playmates and would rather continue with teachers whom they know, than be shifted.

The parents themselves conceded that most children, those of third grade age and under, could be shifted without difficulty.

Several other parents of fourth and fifth graders had "been unhappy" originally, but had withdrawn protests later, they added.

In answer to questions from the audience, school district Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld pointed out that the cases of individual children can be studied, to allow them to attend the school where they'll have the best educational opportunities.

In other actions, the board:

1. Indicated it will deduct from pay checks dues for professional organizations which teachers want to join;

2. Granted annual pay increments of $10 a month to Kenneth A. Miller, Encinal school custodian and Roy J. Flynn, gardener.

3. Offered employment to Mrs. Phair Brand, as an eighth grade teacher at Hillview school, replacing Richard Whitlock.

Parents Invited To Meetings At Units Here

Parents new to the Menlo Park Elementary School District will be invited to meetings scheduled to be held next week at the district's several schools, in order that they may become better acquainted with district personnel and policies.

The meetings are actually open to all, but those with children registered in schools here for the first time will find them extremely valuable, according to District Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld.

All parents of newly-registered youngsters—those of older children, in addition to kindergarteners—will be informed by mail of time and place of the meeting at the school which their child attends, Dr. Homfeld said.

Some may be missed in mailings, however, and these should contact the school district office DA 3-1388, for further information.

This is the third year such meetings have been held in the district and topics discussed are general in nature, ranging from curriculum and classroom adjustment to finance and school district transportation policy.

Members of the school district administration as well as members of the faculty of the school where the meeting is being held, are to be on hand to help present the topics.

Schedule for the metings, all of which convene at 8 p.m.:

Sept. 11: Oak Knoll School;
Sept. 16: Encinal School;
Sept. 18: Hillview School;
Sept. 19: Laurel School;
Sept. 24: Fremont School.

Can Town Block Condemnation?

Case of Schools vs. Atherton Faces First Court Test Tomorrow

Whether Menlo Park and Las Lomitas School Districts may proceed immediately with separate condemnation of lands in the town will be decided tomorow.

The town's attorney, Winston Churchill Black, will appear before Superior Court Judge Louis B. Dematteis in Redwood City, at 10 a.m. to plead that school condemnation suits be held up until a new zoning law creating "public use" zones and limiting future school construction can be adopted.

An immediate decision is indicated by the fact that a jury trial under which the Las Lomitas district hopes to acquire an acre of the lands of Samual Landi, 273 Alameda de las Pulgas, is on the calendar for next Tuesday. The area sought in th iseminent domain proceding is adjacent to Las Lomitas school.

Black, according to papers filed thus far, will point out that Atherton has more children in school within the city's boundaries than it has residents within town, meaning the highest ratio between the two of any city in the United States.

Howard Gawthorp of the San Mateo county district attorney's office, will represent the school districts.

The Menlo Park School District is curently seeking a 7½-acre school site along Edge road on lands of the former Taylor-Lowery estates.

Atherton is in the role of a defendant in the present case.

Black will argue for court approval of the town's present temporary zoning ordinance, under which no public buildings may be constructed until adequate hearings are held before the town's planning commission, and the final ordinance can be adopted.

Gawthrop points out that the present temporary ordinance doesn't even have a provision for the granting of use permits, which are to be required for all future public building construction when the final ordinance is passed.

Atherton Seeks Building Inspector

Atherton is in need of a building inspector, Town Clerk W. Howard Boren said this week.

The position has become open as Charles E. Howard, the inspector for the past two years, has moved to Reno. He previously made his home in Menlo Park and Los Altos.

The job is a full time one, Boren said, and further information may be had by contacting the Atherton town hall, Ashfield road and Station lane, during regular business hours.

Area GOPers Join In 'Welcome' Plans

Among those actively participating in preparing for a gala "welcome home" buffet supper and reception for Congressman and Mrs. J. Arthur Younger is John W. Dinkelspiel of Atherton, chairman of the San Mateo County Republican Central Committee, which is co-sponsoring the event.

Joining him are, also from the south county, Mrs. Albert Hedge of Menlo Park, president of the South San Mateo County Council of Republican Women; Kenneth DeWitt of East Palo Alto and Landis Weaver, Menlo Park attorney.

The affair will be held Sept. 11 at El Rancho Motel in Millrea.

FACTS ABOUT FIRE PREVENTION

By
Chief George B. Carter
Menlo Park Fire District

MATCHES are a vital necessity in our lives. Here in the United States we use over 850 million a day. But because of carelessness in handling matches, many lives and millions of dollars in property are lost annually.

Every minute in this country, day or night, a home fire breaks out. A substantial percentage is caused by either smokers and matches or children and matches.

Here are a few match instructions:

1. Matches should be kept in a safe metal container.
2. All matches should be kept out of youngsters' reach—preferably on a high shelf.
3. Children should never be allowed to play with matches.
4. Matches should never be tossed away hot—out of windows, into waste baskets, onto the floor. They can come back to life easily and start fires.
5. "Safety matches" are never safe for children, and only relatively "safe" in the hands of adults.
6. Do not use lighted matches to search dark closets. Use a flashlight.

Keep kids away from matches, and matches away from kids!

As the Fire Department's partner in protecting this community against the menace of fire, we are happy to devote this advertising space each month to the Fire Chief's fire prevention message.

High School Buses to Start Rounds Early

Buses operated by the Sequoia High School District will leave their garages in Redwood City at 7 a.m. next Tuesday, starting to pickup students for the high schools of the area at that hour.

Dispatcher Charles Hotchkiss said that, in keeping with district policy, the buses will pick up youngsters residing more than a mile and a half from school.

And he reiterated the directions for high school students living more than a mile and a half from any high school, and possibly not sure which one they are supposed to attend:

"If in doubt, hail any bus that passes and get a ride to the school it's going to, in order not to miss the first day of classes."

At Menlo-Atherton, classes will start at 8:15 a.m. and a 9:15 a.m., in accordance with the district's seven-period day. At Sequoia, classes will start at 8:30 a.m. and 9:30 a.m.

The district operates 17 buses; an additional one is held in reserve for use when maintenance takes one of the others out of service.

Stricter?

A DOG'S LIFE

The city council Tuesday night directed City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr. to study several proposed revisions in the city's animal control ordinance.

Stricter provisions defining "vicious dogs" and "dogs habitually disturbing the peace," together with more stringent control of such dogs, were suggested by Councilman Ira Bonde. Bonde forwarded to O'Keefe a number of such provisions found in the laws of other cities.

Since pasage of the city's present dog control law in May, 1950, the council has periodically found itself embroiled in public hearings and disputes over the conduct of certain dogs within the city.

Students Among Institute Grads

Three Menlo Park students and one from Atherton are among 37 Stanford University students who last week completed the 15th annual radio-television institute held on the campus.

The Menlo Park students included Diana B. Boettcher of 959 Hermosa way, John P. Witherspoon of 14 Bishop lane and Robert R. Monaghan of Stanford Village.

The Atherton student to complete the course was James L. Stewart of 28 Laburnum road.

Witherspoon was the recipient of a Lasky scholarship award, made by Philip Lasky, general manager of KPIX.

Menlo Professor Gets Cancer Grant

Dr. J. Murray Luck, Stanford University researcher whose home is at 101 San Mateo drive in Menlo Park, has been named the recipient of a $7097 grant of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Luck will study "the mode of aromatic amino acid mustards in the growth prevention of mouse melanomas," according to a statement of the cancer society.

His grant was part of a record-breaking $789,372 to California scientists, granted under the auspices of the California Division of the American Cancer Society.

Workers at six hospitals and universities are sharing in the work.

MINOR CRASH

Autos operated by Irma M. Reid, 51, of Corte Madera, and Harold E. Pal-Freeman, 41, salesman who resides at 35 Marymont avenue in Atherton, were involved in a minor crash at Fair Oaks avenue and El Camino Real Sunday afternoon, police report. There were no injuries and both cars were driven from the scene.

New Teachers Get 'Packets'

"Packets for Pedagogues" was the name of a project climaxed this week with distribution of the objects to 36 teachers who joined the Menlo Park Elementary School District for the coming school year.

The packets contained a variety of objects, including a map of the area, copies of the Menlo Park Recorder, and church, train and bus schedules.

They were prepared by Norm Cory, Mrs. Maxine Halvorsen and Sam Green, teachers with the district for the past several years, as a sort of greeting to their new fellow-workers.

Maintenance Crews Say Schools Ready to Open Here Next Week

A happy lack of major reconstruction projects and the development of a new technique for refurbishing desks has resulted in "more readiness than ever" for school opening here.

Menlo Park Elementary School District Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld said this week that only routine maintenance was necessary at the schools of the Menlo Park district during the current year.

Usually, a summer sees at least one project—a major repainting, re-roofing or some such—which has to be crowded in. This year, however, all projects were minor.

As to the desks, Dr. Homfeld reported that those in need of refinishing were taken care of at a considerable saving of time and money, since the old system of sanding and revarnishing damaged tops has given way to a system of "capping" the desks with plastic.

"We think our new desk top material is just about as 'child-proof' as its possible to make anything," the superintendent reported this week. Besides being pretty impervious, it's not as attractive as grained wood is, for carving up."

The system was worked out by District Business Manager John Richert and Maintenance Chief Ray Harper, who have been experimenting for several months

Rotarians Hear Dr. Armstrong

Dr. Charles Armstrong of the Menlo Medical Center was yesterday's speaker before the Menlo Park Rotary Club, at its regular meeting at the Fraternal meeting hall at 645 Roble avenue. The club meets each Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. at the same location.

Dr. Armstrong, who specializes in internal medicine, illustrated his talk with colored slides.

Private Bill Aiding Printer Passes Senate

A private bill which will allow Dan Adamson, 23-year-old Menlo Park Recorder printer, to remain in the United States was passed last week as the United States Senate wound up its session.

The bill was authored by Congressman J. Arthur Younger.

"We are pleased to advise that your private bill, as amended by the senate, was signed by the president and after payment of the required visa fee you will be considered to have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence," Congressman Younger telegraphed Tuesday.

Adamson, who is a native of the Philippines, was originally admitted to the U.S. for medical treatment. His medical visa has now expired.

Efforts to allow him to have permanent residence were sponsored by the San Mateo County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

He resides at 651 Live Oak avenue.

APPOINTED

GEORGE L. BATIS

Bank Manager Is Resident Of Menlo Park

A Menlo Park man has been named manager of Bank of America's new Belmont branch, scheduled to open next month in the Carlmont village shopping center.

He is George L. Batis, 52 Willow road, who receives his first branch manager appointment after 16 years of wide and varied experience with the statewide bank.

The announcement was made in San Francisco this week by S. Clark Beise, Bank of America president.

Beginning as a messenger at the San Francisco main office in 1941, Batis advanced to junior officer at the central office in 1946 and to assistant cashier the following year.

He was assistant manager of the large Clearings and Transit department when selected last year for intensive executive development training at the Palo Alto branch.

Batis was 1953 chairman of the bank's Junior Advisory Council, a panel of 12 younger officers chosen by senior management to work closely with top executives for a year on problems of bank management.

He is also a past adivsor to the Junior Achievement Program.

He and his wife, Odette, are the parents of two children, Odette R., 9, and George L. Jr., 6.

Exchange Students:

Girl From Argentina, German Boy To Start Classes at High School

A girl from Argentina who has wanted to live in the United States since she was six years old and a German youth seeking a vocation will enter Menlo-Atherton High School next week as exchange students under the American Field Service program.

A pert, 17-year-old blonde from Argentina, Edith Carbone is living in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Post and their two daughters, Penny and Pam, at 1280 Bellair way. She is one of two foreign students who will enter Menlo-Atherton High School this fall under an American Field Service program.

After graduating from school in Buenos Aires, Edith has been teaching the fifth grade in Argentina. She also gave private lessons.

STUDY ONLY

Describing school in her native country, she reported there is no extra curricular activity and that studies are the only items on the educational bill of fare.

Since her arrival here, Edith and the two Post girls have been busy shopping, swimming and sight-seeing. All three are eagerly eyeing progress in the construction of a pool at the Post residence.

When completed, the pool will give Edith a chance to utilize another hobby—collecting bathing suits. Prohibitively expensive in Argentina, swim suits have caught Edith's eye. She had purchased two in the several days between her arrival and the interview with the Recorder.

Her other hobby is dancing. What does she think of Elvis? She likes him, she reports, but is also fond of American jazz.

LIKES ICE CREAM

She has a weakness for American ice cream, she confesses, and is seen with an ice cream cone in hand at every opportunity, her friends report. Ice cream in Argentina is merely ice, Edith said, and the American type is much more satisfactory.

Edith is the daughter of Luis Carbone, a public notary, and has two younger brothers.

To get a chance to come to the U.S. she competed with 60 other persons in Buenos Aires, taking an oral and two written examinations.

Dieter Schulz, 17, of Berlin, is living in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Holland, 61 Fredrick avenue, Atherton.

Undecided as to a vocation, he will study with the senior class. The German youth is searching for a vocation in which he can couple his ability to speak three languages with a fondness for drawing.

LIKES SPORTS

He is looking forward to Menlo-Atherton's sports program, since athletics are not emphasized in German educational institution. Asked if he would try out for one of the Bear squads, Dieter said he might give basketball a try.

Schulz spent some time at Stanford University during his first few days here in an attempt to learn more about the life of ex-President Herbert Hoover. Aside from this, most of his time in this area has been spent getting acquainted and sight-seeing.

He was particularly impressed by the fact that our structures are spread out instead of built in stories. In Germany, he said, the buildings are much taller.

INFLUENCE GREAT

Dieter reported that the American influence in music through the medium of jazz is great in his native country. He wasn't as impressed with the current teen age attraction, Elvis Presley, as was his fellow exchange student.

Out of 500 Berliners taking oral and written exams to win the opportunity to come here, only 22, including Schulz, entered the U.S.

Dieter lives with his mother, Mrs. Eva Schulz, and a sister, Heike, 14. Mrs. Schulz works in the public relations department of a coffee company in Berlin.

Roadster Nuzzles Telephone Pole

A European sports car was badly damaged early Sunday, after its owner lost control and the vehicle crashed into a telephone pole, police report.

The driver, Knight Prior, 46, of 258 Middlefield road, suffered a broken arm.

Atherton officers say he was driving south on Middlefield road and apparently lost control as he rounded the bend in the road at 17th avenue. The car came to rest after hitting a mail box and knocking down some shrubbery at 198 Fair Oaks lane.

GET GAS TAX FUNDS

San Mateo county has received $142,556.54 as its apportionment of Highway Users' Tax funds distributed by the state for August. It was announced this week by State Controller Robert Kirkwood.

As We See It:

School Days Bring New Call For Caution on City Streets

School days are here again and youngsters will be facing the hazards of traffic en route to and from their classrooms. Every motor vehicle driver can help make school days safe days by being extra careful near schools.

The timely message—"School's Open! Drive Carefully!"—is being sounded by police, parent-teacher groups and safety organizations.

It's no idle plea. There will be a great many of our youngest citizens going off to school within the next few days. Many will be walking and riding bikes on our streets; some will be inattentive to the hazards of the route and unless every driver is alert, a few will be badly hurt.

Those school zones, so empty during the summer, suddenly will be busy again.

The lives of your children and your neighbor's children are in the hands of every motorist. Heed the warning!

Municipal Report:

Number of Trees in Menlo Park May Actually Be on the Upswing

One of the casualties of municipal growth is trees.

In Menlo Park, there have been, possibly, fewer such casualties than in most of the more modern, faster-growing communities of the Peninsula.

And Menlo Park has also taken the lead in replacing some of the trees that have disappeared, by instituting a street tree-planting program which in time will see, eventually, more trees than ever in the city.

First off, Menlo Park had mixed fortunes when subdivision of large areas began to take place, shortly after the end of World War II.

Subdividers could build more houses, lay out lots faster and with greater ease, and grade whole areas if trees didn't interrupt.

On the other hand, many of them realized—and the city government concurred—that the ancient oaks and other native woods were a prize asset, and should be preserved.

A small, one-piece example of what has gone on in Menlo Park as a whole in the past few years may be seen in the city's most recent parking plaza developments.

There, were it was necessary to remove trees in order to get a couple of more parking spaces, the trees were removed.

But in a couple of cases it was found that the parking layout could be made around the trees, resulting in only minimum loss of space, while leaving the trees intact. Thus, a couple of trees still remain in the parking plazas.

It has been argued that the trees were certainly more valuable assets than the parking spaces which replaced them. But on the basis of cost of the plazas, each parking space cost about $2000. This is enough to make even an ardent arborealist think a couple of times before saying that a tree which might take up two parking spaces should be preserved.

Meanwhile, inhabitants of residential areas have found that there are problems attendant on retaining some of the older trees in residential areas, too.

In the Willows, one of the most contested features of the landscape is a series of pine trees along McKendry drive. Some residents wants them to be retained, and others want them removed. Utility men say they could interfere with overhead wires, and city street department workers are obliged to take another one out every once in awhile, because they don't get proper nourishment in a street-side situation and fall victim of diseases.

Some years ago, the city itself had a complaint. It concerned the "dripping" done by some diseased elm trees in the civic center. The trees weren't removed, but they still drip small droplets of sap onto cars and pavement below.

City government can't do much about the kind of trees which residents put on their private grounds, but the city council has set up standards designed to keep streetsides looking decently leafy in the future.

This is the city's street tree planting program.

Under it, residents may order hardy trees which grow well in curbside areas without disturbing the adjacent pavement; only requirement is that a group of residents along the same block make a request at the same time, so city crews can maintain the trees during their first few months of growth in an efficient manner.

From the numerical point of view, this can mean more trees than ever before in the city.

The native oaks were apparently scattered pretty sparsely, if the distribution on undeveloped lands west of the city is any indication, and other plants apparently grew in about th esame ratios.

Under the city's policy, it's possible that there can be one tree planted for each 50-foot lot in the city—not counting the numbers planted by individual homeowners in their own yards, for decoration, fruit or shade.

—Roger Freeberg.

One of the Menlo Park downtown merchants' favorite "kaffee klatsch" and hot stove league emporiums has been closed for vacation of employees, with the result that almost nobody has exchanged any ideas about baseball during the last couple of weeks.

Mike Belangie, who usually needs about three cups of coffee to become conscious, claims he's been "sleep-walking" for the past three days.

Recent publicity to the effect that army engineers think there's a good dam site on the Stanford University lands west of Menlo Park comes as no surprise to old timers.

The Boy Scouts were moved out of the area in about 1935, it was claimed, because a dam was going to be built at that time.

Some of the ex-Boy Scouts, incidentally, remember an old swimming hole in the San Francisquito Creek bed, which will really be replaced in style if and when a reservoir is created.

Councilman Mike Belangie has a bet — a five-cent one, with no odds given or taken—that a contract will have been let for a new police station in Menlo Park by Dec. 31, 1958.

The reason you never see Police Chief George Potter smiling in a newspaper picture is because, he says,

"I once saw a picture where there was an accident victim lying in the street, and there were two cops standing by, laughing. I don't want to get caught in the same situation."

Best vacation treat for one Menlo Park resident: Driving 300 miles without having to stop for a traffic light.

The route taken was from the Oregon border south to near Vallejo, and the hours of the drive were from midnight to 7:30 a.m.

Our resident concedes that he had to slow down a few times, going through towns along highway 99W. But that's nothing compared to his local driving, he says.

One look at the family's backyard revealed a harrassed housewife trying to keep a half dozen kids from mauling the animals (which includes six puppies and a nervous mother). Things weren't made any calmer, either, when a Recorder staff member stepped on one of them.

County Comment:

County's Grand Jury Points to Future Political Upheavals

By FLOYD M. McCUE
Editor and Publisher, Redwood City Star-Advertiser

The board of supervisors has been having its headaches with the budget, pension systems and tax rates but the headaches that are hurting the most are the continued stabs by the county grand jury, which have all the earmarks of a red hot political battle come next June's primary.

The jury had board members, as well as the present and past county engineer "on the carpet" over expenditures on the county's road building program.

The big noise is coming from the north coast section members of the grand jury, with particular emphasis on Jury Foreman Higgins who has had more than one run-in with county officials on previous matters.

This year's grand jury is probably setting a record for its attack on county officials, which has most observers believing there will be a mad scramble of candidates for office next year.

Besides the board itself the jury has climbed on the neck of Agricultural Commissioner Max Leonard (appointed) retired Engineer M. A. Grant and his successor Don Wilson, Assessor O. B. Hempstead and even Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore.

The firing of Planning Commission Chairman Carr S. Pechtel also made a candidate out of him for supervisor but not until 1960 as Alvin S. Hatch does not come up for election until that time. With Hatch getting well up in years it is possible he won't seek office again, but so far he is more than holding up his long time public service record as one of the best.

While none of the blasting has come from the central part of the county it is almost a cinch that Supervisors Ed McDonald and Martin Poss will have opposition. They won handily in 1954 despite apparently strong opposition.

Well, the board kept its promise to the county workers and put the second pension (federal social security) plan into effect at a cost of $100,000 to the taxpayers for the first year. It was assured, however, that a careful study would be made with the proposed integration of the county and federal plans.

We have argued to no avail that a second pension plan be put to a vote of the people. Financial matters that tie the taxpayers to sums of $100,000 and more a year "from here in" should be up to the people to decide, but the board thought otherwise.

Another new "wrinkle" that tands to cost the taxpayers a pile of tax receipts before it is over is the program to establish a county park in the high Sierras. The board gave its approval to a three-man committee to study sites again this week, possibly a little closer and at a lower altitude than those proposed previously. It looks like the supervisors are going to go along with the park commission recommendation.

An idea of what the park, despite free land from the federal government, could cost is seen in figures released by the State Department of Natural Resources for a new state park at Emerald Bay. Actual cost of the campsite itself is set at $17,000. A water and sewer system will cost $53,000, roads and parking, $57,000, entrance station and other buildings, $52,000, and cleanup work $2000. The total comes to $172,000, not to mention the upkeep and operations over the years.

No money is budgeted for the proposed park, nor has the idea met with sanction of the supervisors. The fact that they are studying the matter indicates that we may see this item in next year's budget.

Speaking of budgets and tax rates, we notice San Francisco has boosted its rate to a record $7.37—an increase of 31 cents—AND San Francisco does have the one-cent sales tax. We're more convinced than ever that our own board of supervisors did its best in keeping our increase down to 13 cents without a even a word of sales tax adoption.

SALAD DAYS

Walter the Weathermouse was picking his teeth, as he strolled into the office this week.

"Marvelous hot dog I just had," he declared after removing the pick and smacking his lips. "All garnished with relish."

"I relish relish, really. The garnish was garish, and if there's anything I really relish, it's garish garnish.

"Furthermore," he went on to say, "We garrulous garnish gobblers, along with garlic gulpers and gastronomists, like something a little complicated, like this."

"We see," we rejoined. "What's the matter with old fashioned things, like mustard?" Walter looked shocked.

"No novelty to that any more," said Walter. "It's too easy to cut. Now, really garish garnish. . . ."

And he babbled for a while, but we weren't sure what he said.

Augmenting Program:

Curriculum Changes Planned in Arithmetic, Social Studies Here

New texts and techniques will make possible the broadening of curriculum in arithmetic, social studies and history and geography on some grade levels in Menlo Park District schools during the coming year.

On the other hand, declared School District Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld, the district has been unable to locate any qualified remedial reading teachers, with the result that this phase of the district's curriculum development program must be revised.

Studies of arithmetic will be broadened on all grade levels, according to Dr. Homfeld. This is possible because of new texts which have been supplied by the state, which will aid in the studies.

Second grade social studies, which used to be concerned with "the neighborhood," are to be broadened to avoid some repetition of first grade and kindergarten work, the superintendent added.

Sixth grade history and geography courses will be among the most extensively revised.

In previous year, these have been concerned mainly with the countries of North, South and Central America, under the general heading of "neighbors of the U.S."

This will be expanded to include studies of islands of the Pacific, and the transoceanic neighbors of Australia, New Zealand, Japan, and continental Asia, according to Dr. Homfeld.

REMEDIAL

In regard to remedial reading, Dr. Homfeld said plans are now in the works for a concentrated in-service remedial reading instruction course for the district's classroom teachers.

District administrators spent several months seeking qualified specialists, of whom two were originally sought, to overcome the reading training of children with special problems. These instructors were to serve as special guides, working a limited number of hours a week with each of their charges.

Under the now-proposed system, classroom teachers will endeavor to help slow readers in the regular classroom situation.

The superintendent pointed out that Menlo Park Elementary School District students normally are well above the national average in most subjects, including arithmetic and social studies.

Nevertheless, the strengthening of the program will go on, to put them even further ahead.

Last year, major improvement of curriculum was concentrated in the field of science with the result that special teachers have been hired for Oak Knoll, Hillview and Encinal schools for the curretn year.

WINS IN JUDGING

San Mateo county's floriculture display has been awarded a first place prize ribbon at the California State Fair in Sacramento, it was announced this week.

Probation Dept. Moves Offices

Effective this week the San Mateo County Probation Department opened a branch office on the second floor of the old courthouse at Redwood City. The space occupied was formerly the courtroom of Superior Judge Edmund Scott.

Six assistant probation officers and three clerical personnel, under the supervision of Supervising Probate Officer I. Robert Rognas, moved from the administrative headquarters of the department at Hillcrest.

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

"According to word received here reduced one-way fares on the Southern Pacific railroad between San Francisco, San Jose, Los Gatos and way points were due to go into effect next week, with a general revision of commutation ticket forms due October 1 . . ."

MENLO SCHOOL OPENED WITH SMALLER ENROLLMENT

CIRCUS CLUB PLANNED 'THREE-RING' CIRCUS

"As a sort of finale to the season, the Menlo Circus Club will live up to its name tomorrow and Sunday by staging a three-ring circus—a tennis tournament, horse shoe contest, and swimming meet. Classic Ballet School Now Is Open Here

Now open at 1131 Chestnut street is a new school of classical ballet operated by Ivan Kirov, veteran ballet master and actor. Kirov also operates two other ballet schools in Southern California, where a company of his dancers also is active, having recently completed a national tour.

Kirov lists as graduates of his schools dozens of current headliners in the fields of ballet, motion pictures, stage, television and night club entertainment. He himself studied under leading masters of ballet, drama and opera and has appeared in all these media as well as television and vaudeville.

Kirov was graduated as a geologist from the University of Southern California, where he also held three world's swimming records. Among his hobbies are the study of languages, reptiles, painting and sculpture.

Kirov told the Recorder this week that he hopes to establish a local ballet company of the highest calibre. He explains that his approach to the classic ballet is in the tradition of the Imperial Russian School. His goal, he says, "is a technical discipline so controlled that mere technique is transcended to a higher plane of artistry."

"Americans physically and emotionally are no less gifted than the Russians," Kirov declares. "The material is here. Education is needed."

Planners Face Short Agenda

Only two minor items were on the Menlo Park planning commission's agenda, when the group met last night for its regular monthly formal session.

The items included a hearing on a proposed sign, to be constructed for the "Awful Fresh" MacFarlane candy store to be built at El Camino Real and Menlo avenue and consideration of a request for study, forwarded by the city council, and affecting certain multiple-family lots in Belle Haven.

The Wednesday night meeting was a rescheduling of the planning commission's regular "first Monday of the month" gathering, deferred because of Labor Day.

It was held after the Recorder went to press.

TREES IN PERIL

Editor, the Recorder:

SOMEONE INTERESTED IN PRESERVING OUR BEAUTIFUL LIVE-OAKS—PLEASE HURRY

I have lived in this home for 20 years and have been a subscriber to your paper for as long as I have been here, guess, but anyway, this is the FIRST time I have sent you an SOS and I am surely sending it now.

We have three treasured live-oaks in our back garden which I love dearly. Recently a Tree Surgeon came to see the tree and said there was a bug or something in it and said there was no help for it and that it would take 10 or 15 years for it to die. Here's the thing—SURELY in this day and age there MUST be a spray or SOMETHING to help this tree. I cannot simply sit by and let it die without knowing I have done everything for it to preserve it for generations to come. Not only MY tree, but would it not be possible for whatever this is to attack other trees not only in our immediate neighborhood but in the whole community. We have had the trees sprayed once each year for moth, etc. Can you put me in touch with a SPECIALIST or SOMEONE who knows of something or will try to find out if this tree cannot be saved?

Mrs. George R. Hellner.

All-Stars Champs In City Cage Loop

The All-Stars made an exciting last-minute rally in the championship game played last Thursday night to nip the Goofers 74-71. The final gun marked the end of the summer basketball league sponsored by the Menlo Park Recreation department.

Leading for three and a half quarters, the tiring Goofers succumbed to the relentless pressure of the All-Stars. The loss of Steve Flynn in the last stanza proved to be a crippling blow to the Goffer squad.

HEIGHT VS. SPEED

The Goofers used their height advantage to score repeatedly and to choke off the possibility of easy shot by the All-Stars. On the other hand, the All-Stars capitalized on their "long bench" and utilized their speed to wear down their opponents.

Bub Bowling of the Gooferse hit 21 points and repeatedly set up the offensive pattern that led to easy field goals by his team mates. Bud Mathieson racked up 12 out of 13 free throws to help the Goofers' cause. Steve Flynn scored 16 points for the evening, and his rebounding was superior for both sides.

For the All-Stars, Bobby Wendell hit 24 points for high point honors but it was his field generalship plus good passing that spelled the difference for the All-Stars. Jerry Schultz only scored 6 points but those points came at a time when the Goofers threatened to run away with the game. In addition, Jerry played brilliantly on defense, breaking up many passes with his hustling defensive play.

Sonny McNitt did yeoman work on the boards for the Stars, particularly when the "big-man", Gary Dodson, fouled out in the third quarter. Although shorter than both Flynn or Mathison, McNitt held his own against these two.

The game was never cinched for either team until the final buzzer, and it proved out that the team getting the breaks near the end of the game won.

Menlo Residents Invited to Join Palo Alto Band

Palo Alto Community Band has announced that Menlo Park, Atherton and Woodside residents are eligible to apply for open positions in the band before fall quarter practice begins Sept. 11.

Clarinet, flute-piccolo, bassoon and oboe players are wanted most in the reed section of the band, according to Bandmaster Nathan Chasin.

In the percussion section there is a vacancy for snare drummer who doubles on tympani.

Interested brass section players also will find openings for French horn, baritone horn, and tuba, Chasin said.

Bassoons, French horns, tympani and tubas can be furnished by the band to musicians who do not own an instrument.

Musicians who would like to join the band and can attend most Wednesday practices should apply to Band Manager Robert L. Holland, DA 6-5628, evenings.

Warner Signups Being Taken

Area youngsters who enjoy "contact" football and who have not reached their 14th birthday as of June 14 are eligible to compete on a Mid-peninsula Pop Warner football team this season.

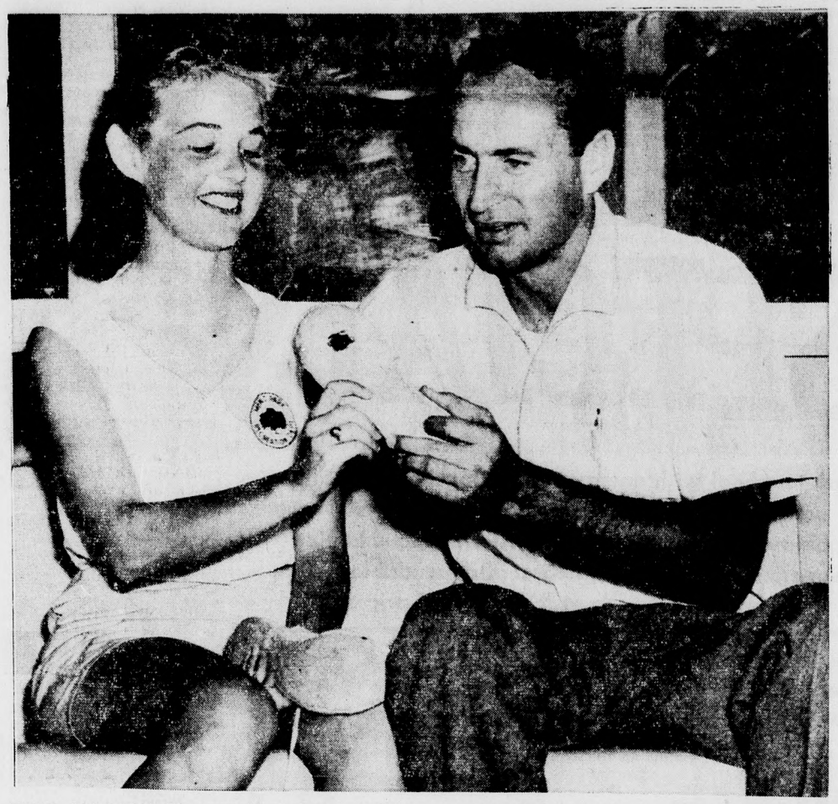

The team, coached by Paul Hannig, of Redwood City, will compete in the Northern California Warner loop. Hannig will be assisted by former Notre Dame gridder William Brill; Dick Weber, formerly of Toledo University; Marty Formico of Santa Clara, and ex-San Francisco 49er star Alyn Beals.

Signups are being held each morning from 10 to 12 at Community Park field in Redwood City. The weight requirement of the league prevents players from scaling more than 118 pounds at the time of weighs-ins and not more than 123 pounds at any time during the season. Conditioning prior to weigh-ins has trimmed many a would-be player before and during the season.

The first game for the local club is scheduled for September 29. Uniforms for the team are provided by the Redwood City Athletic Club. Further information on the team may be obtained by calling Brill at EM 6-7235.

In First Performance:

New Theater Group Does Justice To Agatha Christie's 'Mousetrap'

By JUDY ANDERSON

Tonight's opening performance of Carroll and Clark's production of the Agatha Christie thriller, "Mousetrap," should be a pleasant surprise to area theater-goers.

The air of confusion which normally surrounds any new group seemed altogether nonexistent, as the players and crew sailed through their final dress rehearsal of this, their first performance.

A mystery drama in the best Christie tradition, it takes place (naturally) in a remote country guest house during a dreadful storm.

Lacking the technical facilities they would desire (the play is produced in the executive conference room at Rickey's Studio Inn), the troup adapted to their situation admirably in the use of three-quarter-round staging.

Director Jerry LeGrande of the Menlo Players Guild found excellent material to work with in the 'Mousetrap" cast.

As Mollie Ralston, Erica Speyer projected a genuine human warmth into her difficult part. Ray Gordon used his background of previous little theater experience to create "just the right amount" of suspicion. Christopher Wren was portrayed only as someone like Peter Kump could get away with. Carolyn Davis, excellently cast as Miss Casewell, put on a performance equally professional as that of Rosemary Hay in her part as Mrs. Boyle.

Eugene Carlson seemed very much at home in his role of Major Metcalf, while Wes Cazel's unconvincing Italian dialect, though amusing, appeared somewhat more difficult.

Sergeant Trotter, played by Phillip Angeloff, did a tremendous job of holding the entire group together in a refreshing performance of his part.

Tickets for the production may be obtained by calling DA 4-3038. The show runs tonight through Sunday, and again Saturday and Sunday of next week.

HIGHWAYMAN

Automotive column, The Highwayman, will not appear this week and next week, as Recorder Auto Editor Bill Finefrock is vacationing in the Northwestern states. The column will be resumed on his return.

Full Summer of Activity Nears End at Playgrounds

In its end-of-season summary report, Menlo Park Recreation Department announced that 49,665 children participated in summer activities sponsored by the department at the six playground areas an done city park which they staff.

From June 24 to Aug. 30, Laurel, Willow, Flood School, Belle Haven, Oak Knoll, Hillview and Nealon Park each maintained two directors, male and female.

"We are very well satisfied with the ouctome of the program in all 10 phases of it," reported Fred Parsons, head of the Recreation Department.

TENNIS AND ARCHERY

Four tennis sessions were sponsored by the department. Instruction was offered to children in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, in beginner, intermediate and advanced groups.

Archery classes, geared to the skill levels of the children, were offered to any youngsters in the fifth grade or above. Two highlights of these programs were a tennis match with Redwood City and an archery tournament.

The total attendance for tennis and arcrery was 3289.

MUSIC SCHOOL

Under the direction of Miss Lucy Landon, children received free instruction and an opportunity to perform with an orchestra.

The program, conducted at Hillview School, brougt such a tremendous response that the services of Lee Hill were obtained, making it possible to carry out a summer band and chorus.

The orchestra held an open rehearsal at th end of the season and the band gave a concert. 3200 students took part in the summer music program.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

Under a new system, each playground ran its own arts and crafts program, with instruction provided by the women directors.

Some of the projects completed were papier mache piggy banks, sand sculpture, plaster cast mosaics, wall paper place mats, lanyards, covered pencil holders and book covers, paper bag puppets and masks, maracas, etc.

According to Marilyn Field, supervisor of playgrounds, the crafts program was very well handled at all the playgrounds.

Total attendance for arts and crafts was 2002.

SPECIAL EVENTS

On the seven playground areas, a special event was featured each week. A chronological list of the events includes "Fourth of July," "Hobo Week," "Disneyland Parade," "Talent Week," Frontier Week," "Olympics," "Wheels Week," "Playlet Week" and "Pow-Wow Week."

Along with the special weeks, tournaments were held in such activities as jumprope, pickup-sticks, checkers, tetherball, block-head, and four-square.

In addition to the regularly scheduled events, extra ones were created by the directors. These included watermelon feeds, punch parties, kool-aid and cupcake parties.

At the Hillview playground, a tee nclub was in operation. Jerry Arguello, playground director, arranged bowling and ice skating activities for the youngsters in that group.

The Playlet Contest was dubbed a huge success by the department. There were 350 spectators and 65 participants. The skits were presented in Burgess Theater. This years' winner was Oak Knoll with their interpretation of "Ten Little Indians."

Under the direction of Stanley Sexton, a wide variety of athletic activities were sponsored by the program. Among these were Farm League baseball, swimming, softball, basketball and dance.

Farm League baseball drew the largest number of participants of all activities of the department with a total of 22,483. The program was divided into two age groups. Boys nine years and under, and boys 10 to 12 years of age.

Baseball clinics were conducted on six of the summer playgrounds. These clinics featured the teaching of fundamentals, skills, and techniques in batting, catching, fielding, throwing, base running and simple tactics and strategy in offensive and defensive play.

All boys who participated in the baseball clinics had a chance to play an equal amount of time in intersquad games and practice games.

Four sessions of lessons, two weeks for each, were offered for children seven years and older. Classes were offered to beginners, advanced swimmers, intermediate swimmers, and synchronized swimming.

Recreational swimming included employees swimming, family nights and a swim team.

The softball program sponsored four leagues: adult softball program, industrial and B leagues, A.S.A. B Tournament, L.D.S. Church league.

Total participation in softball was 2550.

A successful summer basketball program was carried out. The A League was open to boys 17 to 19 years of age. Eight teams played a 14 game season.

The B basketball elague was open to boys 14 to 16 years of age. Six teams in this league played a 10-game season.

Down to Earth:

Transplant Shrubs to Ground From Containers Anytime

Peninsula gardeners, who enjoy so many of nature's blessings, count the ability to plant shrubs any time of the year as one of the greatest. Unlike our eastern neighbors who cannot even dream of planting during their hot summers and cold winters, we can transplant shrubs from containers on almost any day of the year.

Planting from containers is becoming increasingly popular in California for many reasons. One of the most important is that it is just as simple as planting from bare root and shrubs often thrive even better.

The plant in a container carries much of its environment with it to the garden. All the gardener then needs to do is to be sure that the soil into which the roots will stretch for food is a healthy mixture.

CUT CONTAINER

After the gardener selects his plant he should request the nurseryman to cut down the sides of the container to facilitate remova.l If the home gardener does not intend to transplant immediately, however, he should make other arrangements for having the container sides cut.

At home, the gardener should first prepare the soil into which he is going to place the shrub by mixing the soil from the hole with peat moss and humus. A mixture of one-third soil, one-third peat and one-third humus is generally acceptable. Inquire from your nurseryman if there is an deviation from this mixture.

Making certain the hole is sufficiently large to comfortably accept the ball which surrounds the roots of his shrub, the gardener then places some of the soil mixture in the bottom of the hole and then places the uncanned shrub on it.

The level of the shrub in the soil should be the same as it was in the container. This can be assured by placing the soil ring on the stalk or trunk of the shrub at ground level. After the shrub has been correctly positioned in the hole, tamp the dirt mixture around it firmly and then water sufficiently to settle the soil and to remove air pockets.

MOVE ANYTIME

Another reason for the popularity of container transplants stems from the fact that they can be moved any time during the year. This makes it a simple matter for a home owner to follow his landscape plan gradually, instead of having to do it all in one month.

This is a great advantage for those gardeners who have only a limited time to devote to the garden. And for the new home owner this is ideal since he can begin his landscaping at any time during the year and continue gradually as time and budget permits.

Another advantage of buying shrubs in containers is that they need not be planted at once. By caring for them in the container until you are ready to plant, then, you can carefully select the area which has the proper sunlight and exposure the new shrubs require.

LARGE SELECTION

Walking into his local nursery to select the shrubs for his home can be quite a treat for the gardener. Nowhere can you get a better idea of foliage color and shape. And for selectiong roses, camellias or other flowering shrubs, what a joy to wander through the different varieties and colors to choose the ones he prefers!

During the blooming seasons of the Peninsula's favorite shrubs, local nurseries carry large selections of the different varieties in one-gallon and five-gallon containers.

* * *

GARDEN CALENDAR WEEK OF SEPT. 5

Ask your nurseryman about the effective chemical soil conditioners that have been developed to take the back-breaking work out of gardening.

* * *

Rhododendrons, gardenias and azaleas sometimes persist in having yellow sickly leaves even after fertilization. This condition can frequently be corrected by applying iron sulphate, or iron chelates.

* * *

If you want to change the color of your hydrangeas, ask your nurseryman how often you should add chemicals. Aluminum and iron sulphate applications change pink flowers to blue and keep blue and violet flowers from becoming pink.

* * *

Plant container-grown chrysanthemums now.

* * *

Transplant or plant new bearded iris.

Physiologist Presents Paper At Stanford

Dr. George Loeng, 89 Tallwood court, Atherton, a physiologist at the U.S. Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory in San Francisco, last week presented a paper at the meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences at Stanford University.

He explained what happens to rat liver when as much as 70 per cent is removed.

These observations are possible by keeping the section of isolated liver alive in a highly intricate glass apparatus which circulates the blood and from which bile flow can be measured.

Dr. Leong explained that the weight of the liver resection increases very rapidly during the first 48 hours and more slowly thereafter until weight closely approximating the pre-resection weight is restored at the end of three weeks. Definite changes in Kupffer cell activity (the ability of macrophages in the liver to remove foreign substances from the blood stream) were observed after partial resection.

Although bile secretion increases rapidly the first four days, by five to seven days after the operation it approximates that of the control animals.

The paper, "Liver Function in the Regenerating Rat Liver-Chromic Phosphate Colloid Uptake and Bile Flow," was co-authored by Leong, Miss Rita Pessotti and Dr. R. W. Brauer, head of the pharmacology branch at NRDL. Dr. Leong presented it before the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine (Pacific Coast Section).

Program Set For Retarded In High Schools

A special program for slow learners is being initiated by the Sequoia Union High School District this year.

The curriculum is designed for high school age youngsters with an IQ (intelligence quotient) of less than 75; it is hoped such retarded individuals can be taught some type of work or conduct which may fit them for simple jobs, Dr Rex Turner, district superintendent, explains.

The retarded children's program is the only new one being set up this year by the high school district.

"We have been giving continuing attention," Dr. Turner went on, "to the problem of making the best possible use of the average student's time, and also how best to challenge the gifted children of our district.

"Thus we are constantly examining and re-examining our curriculum, to see how we can improve it."

This doesn't lead to many spectacular changes in curriculum, the superintendent observed.

Among other things, Garrett Rollins, science teacher at Carlmont, met for a week-long series of conferences with representatives of elementary schools in the high school district area, to discuss coordination of science programs.

Sequoia Staff 'Camps Out' In Warehouse

Sequoia High Schol District's administrative staff is currently "camping out" in a warehouse on its Redwood City campus, pending the opening of its new headquarters at James and Elwood streets.

The administrators—business office, superintendent's office and other departments — made the move last Friday, in order to free two classrooms for use when school opens.

The new administrative building will not be open until Oct. 1, Dr. Turner said, but the classroom need is an immediate one, necessitating the move now.

Dr. Turner is using an office usually occupied by Lloyd Osborne, district property manager. Other district officers are operating in units separated by packing boxes full of instructional and maintenance supplies.

Rahe-Cowell Wedding:

Newlyweds Return to College Studies

At home this weekend in Eugene, Ore., will be Mr. and Mrs. Russell Neal Cowell (Elizabeth Rahe) who will continue their studies this month at the University of Oregon.

The couple was married last Sunday at Christ Episcopal Church in Los Altos at 3 o'clock ceremonies. Beth, as the bride is known, is the daugther of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Rahe of Palo Alto, formerly of Menlo Park. Russ' parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Cowell who were here for the wedding from their home in Lakeside, Ore.

Given in marriage by her father, Beth wore a ballerina length wedding dress fashioned with a very full peau de soie skirt trimmed with lace insets. The snug fitting bodice was accented with short sleeves and a square neckline. A crown of artificial rose blossoms held her shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

SOLE ATTENDANT

In the role of matron of honor was Mrs. Gary Larson, the benedict's sister from Corvallis.

She wore a princess style beige peau de soie frock accented with puff sleves and her flowers were of bronze chrysanthemums.

Standing with Russ as best man was Gary Larson. Some 70 wedding guests were seated by Richard Campbell and Del Bottens, both of Eugene. The Rev. David Graham officiated at the double ring ceremonies.

GARDEN RECEPTION

Following the vow exchange, a champagne supper was served in the gardens of the Rahe home on Willmar drive in Palo Alto. Receiving the guests, Mrs. Rahe was wearing a coffee colored sheath with a copper colored hat and lizard accessories. Mrs. Cowell chose a grey dress with an orange-shade hat and gunmetal colored accessories.

As the couple departed on their automobile trip up the Redwood Highway, Beth was wearing a bright red wool dress with a red ribbon hat and black shoes and bag. They will make their home in an apartment at 1511 High street, Eugene.

Special guests at the wedding were Beth's grandmother, Mrs. M. W. Rahe of Richmond, Calif., and Russ' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris of Oregon.

The new Mrs. Cowell was graduated from Menlo-Atherton High School. She has completed four years at the University of Oregon where she majored in history and will return to work toward a teaching credential. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta.

Russ has also been attending the Oregon university and will return to do additional work on his master's degree in education.

Brown-Higbee:

Vows Are Repeated

MR. AND MRS. JACK HIGBEE

Double ring ceremonies last Sunday at 2 o'clock at the First Congregational Church in Palo Alto united in marriage Diana Lynn Brown and Jack Higbee. Dr. G. Arthur Casaday officiated.

Diana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Brown of Menlo Park and Jack is the son of Mrs. Hannah Higbee and Clyde A. Higbee of San Carlos.

Given in marriage by her father, Diana wore a bouffant chapel length gown of white embroidered organdy fashioned with a round neckline which ended in a V in the back. She wore organdy gauntlets and a pleated organdy Juliet cap edged with seed pearls which held the fingertip length veil.

Diana's flowers were white roses and stephanotis.

Eleanor Brown, Diana's sister, was her sole attendant. She chose a pale apricot princess style taffeta frock of cocktail length. With her dress, she wore a matching braided headband and matching slippers.

Her flowers were white gladioli.

Brent Britschgi of San Carlos was best man and some 100 guests were seated by Bert Gianelli of San Carlos, Bob Longston of Merced and Wallace Smith of San Anselmo.

A reception followed in the social hall of the church. Joyce Gaedecke of Millbrae and Susan Brown, the bride's sister, were in charge of the guest book.

DEPARTURE

As the couple departed for their honeymoon, the new Mrs. Higbee was wearing a beige embroidered linen sheath with matching color duster and brown accessories. They will make their home in San Carlos.

Diana was graduated from Menlo-Atherton High School and attended the College of San Mateo. She is employed as a service representative at the telephone company in Redwood City. She is also the sister of Roger, Cathy, Douglas and Mimi Brown.

Jack attended Sequoia High School and will receive his degree in business administration at the University of Santa Clara next February. He is a member of Kappa Zeta Phi. He has a sister, Callye Pat Higbee.

Man-Made Fibers Take Over Textile Industry

By EVELYN RADCLIFFE

Hang onto your hats, the wheels of progress are spinning again! Discoveries are being made in the textile industries which could completely revolutionize our manner of dressing.

It seems that the silk worms, sheep and camels, the flax plant and cotton seed just are not producing fast enough. Modern chemistry is catching up and bids fair to succeed them, at least in many utilitarian ways.

Fabrics, as we all know, are made up of fibres. Fibres, until this meteoric age of progress came from the seed of a cotton plant, the stem of a flax plant (linen), the soft underdown of a Bactrian camel (camel's hair wool), or some other process of nature.

Soon we may be wearing a luxurious dress or coat made of natural gas and ammonia! Chemical companies over the country are spending millions of dollars on research and development to bring us these man-made fibres. It has been estimated that already one-fifth of the world's textile fibres are coming out of test tubes.

With all due credit to the silk worm, the camel and the lamb, the machine and the chem lab have surpassed them in producing a fibre that makes clothing of greater durability and wearability. On the other hand the natural processes produce a beauty that may never be equalled.

So much for the fibres, what about the fabrics they're made into? The methods of making material, in use since the time of the Pharoahs are being challenged by the age of plastics. The spinning of fibres into yarn, and the weaving of yarn into cloth may some day give way to a new "non-woven cloth" that is causing a commotion in the industry.

Said to be the most revolutionary idea in textiles since the introduction of Nylon in 1939, this non-woven cloth has manufacturers reappraising their methods. It is made from fibres (cotton, wool, or synthetic) which have been matted or pressed together and made to stick with a plastic bonding agent.

Without this plastic, this is somewhat the process used in making felt, only the use of plastic, and other highly guarded secret processes have added a quality which sparks the imagination of many in the clothing industry.

Home sewers have had a slight sampling of this fabric if they used Pellon for interfacings. Homemakers may have tried out another of the forerunners, Masslin napkins and guest towels.

It all probably began with the invention of disposable handkerchiefs, and where it will end is food for speculation. Producers are thinking in terms of throwaway raincoats, aprons, and lab coats. It will take many years of development to get the fabric to a point of beauty and drapeability that it could be used for dresses.

We can see quite a future for this loomless fabric when made up into disposable undies. Wonder if they've ever thought of it? The whole thing sounds like a good idea, but we doubt if it will ever take the place of silks and satins.

Music Group Sets Tea Event

Local members who are officers and board members include Mrs. Charles Maestri, Menlo Park, Mrs. Roy Young, Mrs. James Heter and Mrs. Earl Sanderson, all of Atherton.

Chi Omegas to Meet Tuesday

The Chi Omega Peninsula Alumnae will hold a swimming party next Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. at the Los Altos home of Mrs. William Best.

Adult School Opens Next Week

Being a housewife is a profession of many facets and one which requires specialization in many fields, a fact which the curriculum of the Menlo-Atherton Adult School recognizes.

The class in interior decorating was so popular last year that the unit will be expanded to include a beginning section taught by Fred Henriques and an advanced one by Mrs. C. Duncan Yale. Other homemaking classes offered will include dressmaking, tailoring, clothing design and pattern drafting.

To add the artistic touches to a home, the housewife may register for classes in beginning art, watercolors, oil painting, ceramics, mosaics or braided rug making.

For the housewife who must serve her youngster in a youth organization, the curriculum includes courses in crafts for youth leaders, adolescent psychology, youth leadership training.

High school diplomas are available for those who need credits in English, mathematics, science and history. For the foreign born housewife who desires to become a citizen, she may register for English for the foreign born and the course in citizenship.

The business department offers an opportunity to prepare for careers in secretarial work, accounting, real estate, insurance and investments.

For the enterprising housewife, she may learn to speak French and Spanish. The course in writing offers her an opportunity to earn at home. She may specialize in juveniles, articles, or short stories.

For further information contact the Menlo-Atherton Adult School office, DA 3-4145. Registration will be in the classroom during the week of September 10.

T-V STARS

Barb Dufresne and Kent Morton are television stars. They appeared on Hi-Set, a program from Macy's, where they work on the Teen Fashion Board.

Speaking of fashions, Judie Hicks and Anne Wade modeled in a fashion show in San Francisco. Beth Rosener, Carolyn Carson and Peg McDowell were up there to watch them.

Linda Boicini had a party that was a lot of fun. Her guests, who were Jim Jorgensen, Susie Schwerin, Jody Jordan, Pete Edelen, Lea Jackson, John Irving, John Smurr, Mary Burke, Bob Kinsley, Jeanie Weltner, Ted Ludeman, Vicki Andrews, Frank Dennie, Cynthia Witbeck and Urmas Kaldveer, danced and ate.

Lynn Hills, Diana Endrego, Sue Leslie, Pat Davis, Laura Cole, Barbara Levin and Pat Rooks were the guests of Sue Lockner at a Rainbow Girls slumber party. Before the party the girls all went bowling.

Barbara Buckholtz is back east visiting Betsy Johnston. Home from Oregon is Mary McGee.

Running through plays are Bob Anderson, Mike Gieb, John Finegold, Kent Morton, Ron Harris, Frank Atkinson, Rich Cottrell, Ken Williams, Mike McGriff, Don Connelly, Bob Kennedy, Rosy Jones, Mike Skuce, Larry Irwin and Ed Estberg.

Swimming, eating and practically no sleep best describes Judy Rowson's slumber party. MORE PARTIES

Pizza and dancing were the main attractions of John Smurr's huge party. Enjoying themselves were Susie Schwerin, Rex Jones, Jody Jordan, Pete Edelen, Linda Larenson, Jim Niven, Lea Jackson, Mary Burke, John Irving, Linda Biocini, Bob Kinsley, Jeanie Weltner, Ted Ludeman, Vicki Andrews, Randy Randax, Marsha Merski, Urmas Kaldveer, Cathy Nelson, Frank Dennie and Cynthia Witbeck.

Sheri Adams and Kathy Long gave a going-away party for Laddie Jane Gock, who is moving to Mt. View. Their guests included Sue Clancy, Barb DuFresne, Becky Heyner, Carolyn Carson, Bobby Link, Judie Hicks, Beth Rosener, B. J. Russell, Sharon Edwards, Leslie Keck, Donna Gaylord, Mary Bongardner, Elizabeth and Patsy Gullison and Barb Buckles. The gals ate and talked.

Lin Turner gave a surprise party for "completely surprised" Sue Estberg, who is moving to Sacramento. Her guests were Dave Newhouse, Arline Cottrell, Wade Hampton, Sue White, Lee Pennel, Nicky Jenks, Jerry Reed, Loretta Gananian, Diana Hedge, Tom Strong, Sue Clancy, Dave Skuce, Jeannie Townelly, Tom Gore, Tamie Kop, Bob Wendell and Don Whinerge.

Seen at Adobe Creek last weekend were Bill Bull, Rosemarie Montalvo, Ralph Borgenson, Sue Lampman, Brent Lambert, Dick Chadin, Carolyn Cox, Gary Olsen and Ralph McIntyre.

STATE FAIR

Seen at the California State Fair this weekend were Nancee Winnberg, Kathy O'Connell, Joanne Castellano, Roger O'Connell and Sue Warner.

Local Nurse To Commentate Fashion Show

Faith Emerson of Menlo Park will be the commentator for the "Fall Fashion Carnival" to be given Saturday, September 28, by the California League for Nursing.

The luncheon event will be held at the Villa Chartier in San Mateo and will feature fashions modelled by nurses from San Mateo hospitals and the Public Health Department.

Proceeds from the event will be donated to the state League for Nursing, according to Mrs. Margaret Baumgartner of Redwood City, president of the local unit and chairman of the planning committee.

An additional attraction at the fashion show will be tasting of nine famous Napa Valley wines.

Tickets may be obtained from any member or by calling the Volunteer Bureau, DI 2-0801.

Dr. Tanous, Paula Freitas Are Wed

Paula Jean Freitas, who has been a nurse at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Menlo Park, was married August 22 to Dr. James C. Tanous, son of Mrs. Joseph Tanous of Menlo Park.

The 2 o'clock wedding took place at St. Raphael's Catholic Church in San Rafael. Paula is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Freitas of that city.

For her wedding, the bride chose a ballerina length gown of taffeta brocade. A Juliet cap of pearls held her shoulder length veil and she carried a prayer book with a marker of bouvardia and orchids.

Carol Freitas, the bride's sister, was her maid of honor and chose a blue taffeta ballerina length frock. Joseph Tanous Jr. of San Francisco was his brother's best man.

Following the wedding, a champagne reception was held at the Freitas home. Members of both families and a few close friends attended.

Mrs. Freitas chose for the event a beige dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Tanous donned a blue knit with blue and white accessories. Both had white baby orchid corsages.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Carmel and Dr. Tanous has left for New Jersey, where he will report for air force duty at Fort Dix. His bride will join him there.

Paula was graduated from Dominican High School and St. Mary's College of Nursing where she received her RN degree. Dr. Tanous attended the University of Santa Clara and received his MD degree at the University of California School of Medicine. He just completed a year of residency at the Veterans Hospital last month.

Second Term for Doll Club President

Mrs. William P. Wreden of Atherton will be installed for her second term as president of the San Francisco Doll Club at a luncheon on September 10 at the home of Mrs. Henry Nunes in Alameda.

Mrs. Herbert Fritzie of Redwood City will be installed as one of the directors.
